

Notes on Contributors

Rachel Aumiller is a Research Associate at the Maimonides Centre for Advanced Studies in Scepticism at the University of Hamburg. She received her Ph.D. in philosophy from Villanova University (2016). Her dissertation The Laughing Matter of Spirit: A Young Hegelian Comedy offers a brief history of how history became a laughing matter (i.e. the Hegelian-Marxist framing of history as moving in tragic and comic stages). She was a 2015-16 Fulbright scholar to Slovenia where she specialized in the Ljubljana School of Psychoanalysis.

Aleš Bunta is a Research Fellow in the Institute of Philosophy of the Slovenian Academy of Sciences and Arts, and a lecturer at the Postgraduate school ZRC-SAZU. He is the author of numerous articles, and three books in Slovene: To Annihilate Nothing? (Analecta 2007), The Magnetism of Stupidity: Plato, Erasmus of Rotterdam, Alan Ford (Analecta 2010; Croatian translation: Ljevak 2012), and A-cogito (Analecta 2016). His research interests include the history of philosophy, philosophical analysis of contemporary social phenomena, and biopolitical aspects of comic book pornography.

Jean-Pierre Dupuy is Professor Emeritus of Social and Political Philosophy at École Polytechnique in Paris, and Professor of Political Science at Stanford University. He is member of the French Academy of Technology, a spinoff of the Academy of Sciences, and of the Conseil Général des Mines, the French High Magistracy that oversees and regulates industry, energy, and the environment. He chairs the Ethics Committee of the French High Authority on Nuclear Safety and Security. He is the Director of the Research Program of Imitatio, a San Francisco foundation devoted to the dissemination and discussion of René Girard's mimetic theory. He is author of numerous major works, including The Mechanization of the Mind (Princeton University Press 2000); On the Origins of Cognitive Science (The MIT Press 2009); The Mark of the Sacred (Stanford University Press 2013); Economy and the Future: A Crisis of Faith (Michigan State University Press 2014); A Short Treatise on the Metaphysics of Tsunamis (Michigan State University Press 2015); and Enlightened Doomsaying (Michigan State University Press, forthcoming in 2019).

Zdravko Kobe teaches Classical German Philosophy at the University of Ljubljana. He has published four books on Kant's theoretical and practical philosophy and numerous articles, especially on Kant, Hegel, and contemporary philosophy. He is the Slovenian translator of classical philosophical texts such as Kant's Critique of Pure Reason and Hegel's Science of Logic.

Yuval Krennitzer works in the fields of Comparative Literature and Philosophy, focusing on the intersection of Hebrew and German-Jewish literature and German Idealism and its aftermath. He received his B.A. in Philosophy from Tel Aviv University and his Ph.D. from Columbia University. He is currently a Fellow at The Minerva Institute for German History, Tel Aviv University, and is working on a manuscript based on his dissertation titled How to Believe in Nothing: Moses Mendelssohn's Subjectivity and The Empty Core of Tradition.

Todd McGowan teaches theory and film at the University of Vermont. He is the author of Only a Joke Can Save Us: A Theory of Comedy (Northwestern University Press 2017), Capitalism and Desire: The Psychic Cost of Free Markets (Columbia University Press 2016), and other works.
