

Notes on contributors

Slavoj Žižek is Senior Research Fellow in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Ljubljana, the International Director of the Birkbeck Institute for the Humanities at the University of London, and a professor of philosophy and psychoanalysis at the European Graduate School (Saas-Fee, Switzerland). His books include Less Than Nothing: Hegel and the Shadow of Dialectical Materialism (Verso 2012), Absolute Recoil: Towards A New Foundation of Dialectical Materialism (Verso 2014), Sex and the Failed Absolute (Bloomsbury Academic 2019), and Quantum History: A New Materialist Philosophy (Bloomsbury Academic 2025).

Dan Nădășan is a PhD candidate and Young Researcher in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Ljubljana. His areas of research are German Idealism, Lacanian psychoanalysis, the “Ljubljana Lacanian School,” and the conceptualization of “Hegelo-Lacanianism.” He currently works on the notion of appearance and its importance for the Hegelo-Lacanian reading of Kant.

Jure Simoniti is a researcher at the University of Ljubljana. His main research topics are truth, German idealism, philosophy of language, and philosophy of science. His latest and forthcoming publications include: The Untruth of Reality: The Unacknowledged Realism of Modern Philosophy (Lexington Books 2016), New Realism and Contemporary Philosophy (co-edited with Gregor Kroupa, Bloomsbury Academic 2020), Ideas and Idealism in Philosophy (co-edited with Gregor Kroupa, De-Gruyter 2023), Indirectness: A Plea for Truth in Times of Post-Truth (co-edited with Jela Krečič, Edinburgh University Press 2026), and The Contingent Universality: A New Ontology (Bloomsbury 2026).

Alenka Zupančič is a Slovenian philosopher and social theorist. She works as Research Councilor in the Institute of Philosophy at the Scientific Research Center of the Slovene Academy of Sciences in Ljubljana. She is also professor at the European Graduate School (Saas-Fee, Switzerland) and guest lecturer at numerous universities worldwide. Notable for her work on the intersection of philosophy and psychoanalysis, she is the author of numerous articles and many books, including: Ethics of the Real: Kant and Lacan (Verso 2000), The Shortest Shadow: Nietzsche's Philosophy of the Two (The MIT Press 2003), The Odd One In: On Comedy (The MIT Press 2008), What is Sex? (The MIT Press 2017), Let Them Rot: Antigone's Parallax (Fordham 2023), and Disavowal (Polity Press 2024).

Lidija Šumah is Research Associate in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Ljubljana and regular Visiting Scholar at the University of Chicago. Her work is situated at the intersection of philosophy and theoretical psychoanalysis, engaging critical theory, Freudian and Lacanian psychoanalysis, contemporary continental philosophy, and Spinoza. She specializes in the theory of affect.

Alejandro Cerda-Rueda is a Mexican psychoanalyst practicing in Mexico City. He is a postgraduate professor at the Universidad Iberoamericana (UIA) as well as visiting professor at the Sociedad Freudiana de la Ciudad de México (SFCM). In 2009, he founded and has served as senior editor at Paradiso editores. He recently compiled with Christina Soto Van der Plas the forthcoming book Reversals of Philosophy and Psychoanalysis in the Work of Alenka Zupančič (Edinburgh University Press 2026). He received the Andrew Mellon Grant to participate in the international co-research program "Extimacies: Critical Theory from the Global South" (2019-2022).

Simon Hajdini is Senior Research Associate in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Ljubljana, where he teaches social and political philosophy.

He specializes in critical theory, political economy, hyperstructuralism and psychoanalysis. At present, he is researching and writing on the sensorial politics of social divisions. His latest book is What's That Smell? A Philosophy of the Olfactory (The MIT Press 2024).

Gregor Moder is Senior Research Associate in the Department of Philosophy at the Faculty of Arts of the University of Ljubljana. He co-founded Aufhebung – International Hegelian Association and served as its first president (2014-2020). His works include the edited volumes The Object of Comedy (Palgrave 2020), The Ethics of Ernst Lubitsch (Rowman & Littlefield 2024), and The Resilience of History (Maska 2024), as well as the monographs Hegel and Spinoza (Northwestern University Press 2017) and Antigone as Political Philosophy (forthcoming with Northwestern University Press in 2026).

Jela Krečič is a lecturer at the University of Ljubljana. Her work engages aesthetics, popular culture, and contemporary art through a Hegelian-Lacanian theoretical framework. Her latest book is Deception in Modern Art and Hollywood (Bloomsbury 2025).

Anthony Curtis Adler is Professor of German and comparative literature at Yonsei University's Underwood International College in South Korea. He has published numerous articles on topics ranging from H. C. Andersen to Giorgio Agamben and is also the author of three books: Celebricities: Media Culture and the Phenomenology of Gadget Commodity Life (Fordham 2016), Politics and Truth in Hölderlin: 'Hyperion' and the Choreographic Project of Modernity (Boydell and Brewer 2021), and Bong Joon Ho: Philosopher and Filmmaker (Bloomsbury 2025).

Frank Ruda is Professor of Modern and Contemporary Philosophy at the University of Dundee and Professor of Philosophy at the European Graduate School (Saas-Fee, Switzerland). He also holds permanent guest professorships in Slovenia and China. His most recent monographs include Indifference and Repetition, or: Modern Freedom and Its Discontents (Fordham 2022) and, with Agon Hamza and Slavoj Žižek, Reading Hegel (Polity 2021). Forthcoming are Reading Freud (with Agon Hamza and Slavoj Žižek, Polity 2026), Comrades of the Absolute:

Hegel – Badiou / Badiou – Hegel (Edinburgh University Press 2026), and Courage and Event.

Mladen Dolar is a retired Professor and Senior Research Fellow in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Ljubljana. His principal areas of research are psychoanalysis, modern French philosophy, German idealism and art theory. He has lectured extensively at universities in the USA and across Europe and is the author of over hundred and fifty papers in scholarly journals and collected volumes. Apart from fifteen books in Slovene, his book publications in English include: A Voice and Nothing More (The MIT Press 2006, translated into ten languages), Opera's Second Death (with Slavoj Žižek, Routledge 2001, also translated into several languages), and Rumors (Polity 2024). He is one of the founders of what has become known as the "Ljubljana Lacanian School."

Tadej Troha is Research Associate at the Institute of Philosophy, ZRC SAZU. In his research, he focuses on Freudian and Lacanian psychoanalysis, particularly metapsychology, mass psychology and the history of psychoanalysis, political philosophy, ethics, the problems of the climate emergency, and the study of modernist literature. He lectures at the Postgraduate School ZRC SAZU.